

our child needs medical, dental, health, or hospital services, as parent must give permission. It's the law.

about times when you cannot be reached for permission? A may be treated without parental consent when a physician determines a true emergency exists. That means the doctor judges the child needs immediate medical care and that an attempt to obtain parental consent would result in a delay which would increase the risk to the child's life or health.

in a true emergency, care may be ordinarily rendered to a child only with the consent of the parent or legal guardian. Sometimes a child may need unexpected care which is not, however, a true emergency. In such cases, making an effort to contact the parent for permission can delay treatment and create unnecessary anxious moments for the child.

to prepare for unexpected care your children might need when you are away from home. To do this, make sure babysitters know how to reach you at all times. And when you know you will be hard to reach, you can give permission to other adults. They can then act for you by permitting your child to be treated if unexpected care is needed.

This is a legal document. With it you may appoint relatives, friends, teachers, clergy, neighbors — anyone who is over 18 years of age — to be responsible for your children when you are away from them. It is especially important to prepare this form on the occasions when you know it will be hard to contact you.

Fill out this form carefully. Have your signature witnessed by an adult different from the person you are making responsible for your children.

After you complete this form, give it to the adult(s) you have named to act on your behalf. If your child needs unexpected medical treatment, the responsible adult(s) should present this document to the appropriate person — physician, dentist or hospital representative.
